Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the position of Assistant to the General Manager at ABC Company. I learned about this job opening in the China Daily on January 8th, 2022 and I am eager to apply for this opportunity.

I am a recent graduate from Shanghai College with a major in (self-selected) and I have obtained several skills certificates. I have also worked part-time at DDF Company, where I gained experience in office work and became proficient in using computers.

With my education and work experience, I am confident that I can make a valuable contribution to ABC Company. I have attached my resume for your review and I hope to be granted an opportunity for an interview.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Li Ming

Dear Zhang Ming,

I hope this letter finds you well. As your friend, I have noticed that you have been spending a lot of time playing computer games, and it seems to be affecting your schoolwork negatively. I understand that games can be fun and exciting, but it's important to remember that education is also crucial for our future.

Therefore, I would like to offer some suggestions on how you could balance your time between gaming and studying. Firstly, try to limit the amount of time you spend playing games each day. Instead, allocate some of that time to focus on your studies. You could use a timer to help you manage your time effectively.

Another suggestion is to find a study buddy who can help you stay on track with your schoolwork. This person could be someone who is also interested in studying, and you could motivate each other to concentrate on your work.

Lastly, I would encourage you to find some enjoyable hobbies or activities that can help you relax and unwind after a long day of studying. This could include exercising, reading, or spending time with friends and family.

In conclusion, it's important to find a balance between leisure activities and schoolwork. I hope these suggestions will help you concentrate on your studies and achieve your academic goals. Remember, education is essential for a bright future.

Best regards,
