Dear Zhang Ming,

I hope this letter finds you well. As your friend, I have noticed that you have been spending a lot of time playing computer games, and it seems to be affecting your schoolwork negatively. I understand that games can be fun and exciting, but it's important to remember that education is also crucial for our future.

Therefore, I would like to offer some suggestions on how you could balance your time between gaming and studying. Firstly, try to limit the amount of time you spend playing games each day. Instead, allocate some of that time to focus on your studies. You could use a timer to help you manage your time effectively.

Another suggestion is to find a study buddy who can help you stay on track with your schoolwork. This person could be someone who is also interested in studying, and you could motivate each other to concentrate on your work.

Lastly, I would encourage you to find some enjoyable hobbies or activities that can help you relax and unwind after a long day of studying. This could include exercising, reading, or spending time with friends and family.

In conclusion, it's important to find a balance between leisure activities and schoolwork. I hope these suggestions will help you concentrate on your studies and achieve your academic goals. Remember, education is essential for a bright future.

Best regards,
